RUN WELCOMES PROFESSOR MARK ROSE AM AS ATEC FIRST NATIONS COMMISSIONER

The Regional Universities Network (RUN) congratulates Professor Mark Rose AM on his appointment as the inaugural First Nations Commissioner of the Australian Tertiary Education Commission (ATEC).

RUN Chief Executive Officer Alec Webb welcomed the appointment of Professor Rose, acknowledging his strong credentials for the role.

“Professor Rose’s extensive experience in the sector and his dedication to First Nations community advocacy is undeniable.

“We congratulate him on his appointment as First Nations Commissioner of the ATEC and look forward to working with him to improve First Nations student participation and outcomes.

“RUN universities are proud that 20 per cent of all First Nations students study at our universities and we host double the proportion of Indigenous students than the rest of the sector,” said Mr Webb.

An alumnus of the University of England, a RUN member university, and previously on the Vice-Chancellor’s Indigenous Advisory Council at Charles Darwin University, Professor Rose’s previous experience and engagement with regional tertiary institutions are celebrated by RUN.
